STATE TAXES AGA NST THE BANGOR AND PISCATAQUIS EATEROAD COMPANY, FROM 1881 TO 1885 INCI USIV 3.

The question whither proceedings should be commenced to enforce payment of these taxes which amount in all to $1,373.02 awaited the result of the suit against the Knox & Lincoln Company. On receipt the decision in that case the Attorney G the decision in that case the Attorney General rendered the cpinion that taxes against the Bangor & Piseatat his Company could not be collected as the charter of the latter company contains at stantially identical terms the same examption as appears in the charter of the Knox & Lincoln Company. Subsequently, under an order of the Governor and Countil these taxes were abated.

An Organization Finally Effected by Republ cans, Bolting Democrats and Labor Men.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 1. The Republican members of the State Senate to-day held a caucus and selected officers to behosen when the organization is agreed upon. The Democratic members made honograp non-nations. The Democratic Assembly men held a caucus and nominates with Hudseth, of Hudsen, but Assemblymen held a caucus and nominated. Mr. Hudspeth, of Hudson, for Sprater. Mr. Wolventen, a defeated candicate for the place, and three jothers immediately bolted and a recess was taken. An attempt at reconclimation was unsuccessful. When the time for organization arrived the Democrate were still in caucus. The Republicat Senators met and decided no: to organize till 3 o'clock, to-morrow. Finally the Assembly doors were flung open and in an astant the gallerles were filled and the Republican

The January Atlantic opens with the first chapters of a deligibited novel of Eight.

The January ATLANTIC opens with the first chapters of a delightful novel of E 1g lish country life, written by Mrs. Oliphant and Thomas Bailey Aldrich in collabor tion. Besides this, Mr. Maylon Crawford begins a seral entitled Paul Patoff, about two Russian brothers in Constantinopleof which some descriptions are given which possess all the yividness that make the best descriptive passages of Mr. Isaacs; and Mr. Philip Gilbert Hamerton in his continuation of papers on French and English, shows the difference which the Puritan influence has made in the English manners as opposed to French. Next comes Zenas Smith's ride to Roxbury, a bright little story with a most unexpected termination. Margaret Vundegriff's "het King, who went out Governing, is quite worthy of Mr. Stockton, and the Physiognomy of the Days, by E. R. Sill, shows the curious characteristics of the various days of the week. Arthur S. Hardy, he author of But yet a Woman, has an or ginal paper on Marginal Notes from he Library of a Mathematician. Two papers of real value are written by Agnes Reppier and George Frederic Parsons. The Brs. is about-What Children read To-day, the second, The Saloon in Society, is upon the subject of temperance. A discuss on of the political relations of Frederic the Great and Madame de Pompadour, a puper by Rdith M. Thomas, and some br lisht reviews complete the prose articles. Charlotte Fiske Butes has a striking little poem verses on Athens, and there is also some good verse by others. Houghton, Miffi in the January Number of Harper's of which some descriptions are given

In the January Number of HARPER'S MAGAZINE the leading article is the first half of Sir Edward 'J. Reed's important paper on European navies of the Conti-nent. The series of Southern articles which promises to be one of the chief features of the Magazine for 1887 is tiegun by Charles Dudley Warner's interesting puper on New Orleans, with twenty-one tilustrations by W. H. Gibson and other articles. The Russian novel, Narka, by Kathleed O'Meara, begins, with remarkable vigori. The war correspondent, Frank D. Milled describes and illustrates A. Sammer Campaign with the Gossacks, fron his perpanding ures of the Magazine for 1887 is tiegun by trated by E. W. Kemble. Theodore Child, the Parisian art critic, contributes a timely and readable review of the French Inpressionist, Painters and their peculiarities. Three exquisite short poems by Louise Chandler Moulton, Dora Read Goodald, and Annie Fields are scattered throng the number. Mr. Curtis, in the Easy Chair, pleasantly discusses the seasonable topics of New Years, the Bartholdi statue, and the Hawthorne-Lowell affair. Mr. Howells, in the Editor's Study, writes most entertainlegly of holiday literature. The Editor's Drawer contains a bright easay from Charles Dudley Warfaer upon calendar thoughts suggested by the year 1887. The cluster of humorous anecdotes is followed by a full-page drawing from the English comic artist Du Maurier.

Americanism of the Century is exhibited. in the make-up of the January number. Except a short communication, it is wholy written by Americans.
